

7-16-2010

To whom it may concern,

In starting a small business you are looking for vendors that are "partners" versus just simply suppliers. I felt that Cablik was a partner through the process, largely due to the ownership mindset taken on by Ryan Howard the project manager.

Every construction project has its challenges and our project was no different. The benefit of working with Cablik was that these challenges were met with proactive and creative solutions by Ryan and the team. I could tell he felt a great deal of ownership over getting a great end-product. This allowed me to focus on the other aspects of my business' opening since I could trust that things would be done right and fairly on the construction build-out.

Overall I will look to Cablik for my future projects and will wholeheartedly recommend them to my friends and business partners.

Regards,
Rob Bennett
Bennett Optical