To whom it may concern:

We recently decided to build an upscale custom modern home in the Ansley Park area of Atlanta, and chose Cablik Enterprises as our general contractor, based on their credentials and experience in constructing modern homes. In addition to building our home, Cablik consulted with us to help find our lot. Through all steps of the design and construction process, Cablik Enterprises' team demonstrated professionalism and thorough knowledge of the construction process, and acted on our best behalf to deliver the home we wanted while acting as a good steward of our construction budget.

In addition, Cablik Enterprises played an integral role in helping us to achieve LEED certification through the United States Green Building Council. At the inception of our planning, Cablik Enterprises assembled the team that created a plan to achieve the "certified" level of LEED. During the process, Cablik Enterprises realized the potential to achieve additional credits beyond those originally planned, and successfully completed the documentation which enabled us to achieve the higher "Silver" level of certification. Our home is the first single-family home in the City of Atlanta to achieve LEED-Silver certification. The home also achieved the Earthcraft certification as well as Energy Star certification. These certifications are third-party endorsements of the home's level of sustainability, and we are proud to use our home as an example of sustainable construction. Cablik Enterprises is truly a leader in their field.

To further demonstrate our satisfaction of Cablik's work, we have also hired Cablik Enterprises to perform work on additional projects following the completion of our home. We look forward to a long and lasting relationship with this quality company.

Sincerely,
